

Volunteer Role Profile

Volunteer role: Website content editor

Volunteer manager: Digital Marketing Manager.

Where you will be based:

Either remotely or office based at Plumgarths; your choice.

Why we want you

Did you know? We care for 43 nature reserves across Cumbria and information about them can be found on our website. We've just printed the latest version of our hard copy nature reserve guide and you'll be referring to the amendments made to that and updating our website content accordingly.

This is a desk-based role. Suitable for wheelchair users and under 16's.

Time commitment - Weekdays, starting late September or early October with the aim to complete the task by December or earlier. You can undertake the role either remotely or in our office at Plumgarths, Kendal. Whether you can commit to once or twice a week, it's a flexible week-day role and an ongoing task until the website is up to date but ideally by end of December.

What you will be doing

Using a website Content Management System, you'll update our nature page content to reflect recent amends made to the same content in our hard copy nature reserve guide. Our website uses Drupal content management system.

Basic webpage editing training will be provided by an internal staff member.

The skills you need

Basic competency using a computer is necessary however webpage editing training will be provided.

You can undertake the role either remotely or in our office at Plumgarths, Kendal

What's in it for you

- Becoming part of a friendly and dedicated team at Cumbria Wildlife Trust

Disclaimer

Please note, as a volunteer, you'll be a Cumbria Wildlife Trust ambassador in action: inspiring and enthusing others, often as the public face of our work. We select, check and manage our volunteers to make sure that we are able to do this.

This role is purely voluntary and this arrangement is not meant to be a legally binding one or an employment contract.
